Fatal Fight Over a Rooster.

[Cincinnati Gazette.]
GREENBURGH, (Ind.), March 12th. Last Monday night after the Presidential question was known to have been decided in favor of Hayes and Wheeler, some of the Republicans concluded that a little jollification was in order, and accordingly fired a salute of 185 rounds. After the salute had been fired some of the more enthusiastic of the party imbibed too freely of the intoxicating, and could see nothing worthy of their attention except a large rooster which the Democrats had painted and put up on their headquarters on the west side of the square. This they determined to have.

It would seem as though the Democrats anticipated an attack on their fowl, and stationed eight or ten men on the roof of the building and two or three in the room, armed with revolvers, brickbats, etc., to defend the emblem of their victory over Harrison, and when the Republican boys stormed the fort, expecting to capture the thing with ease, they were met with such a shower of bullets and bats as to cause them to beat an ignominious retreat. They rallied, however, and soon cleared the roof, and carried off the much coveted prize.

For this folly one poor fellow has surrendered his life and another is now under arrest charged with manslaughter. Fred. Chance died this morning from the effect of injuries received while defending the rooster, and Hi. Clark, one of the assaulting party, has been arrested, charged with having inflicted the injuries. However, from the nature of the wounds on Chance's head, it is believed that the missile must have been hurled from the top of the building, and could not have been thrown by any one on a level with him. The friends of Clark say he was not present at the second assault.

AN ELOPEMENT.—Ruby Hill furnishes the last sensation in the nature of an elopement. The woman in the case turned up missing on Monday night, and the following night a hardy son of toil from the white hills of Cornwall followed suit. The supposition now is that they met at some point on the railroad and have gone to the Black Hills or some other place. The bulldozed husband does not seem to worry much over being counted out, but still there might be a fuss if he runs across the destroyer of his happiness and domestic bliss. Matrimony is getting more and more of a conundrum.—Eureka Sentinel.

"So there's another rupture of Mount Vesuvius," said Mrs. Partington, as she put the paper down and put up her specs. "The paper tells us about the burning latter running down the mountain, but it don't say how it got on fire."

Insurance Robberies.

From the report of Insurance Commissioner Foard, just filed with the Governor, it appears that there are at the present time fifteen or eighteen thousand policies of life insurance outstanding in this State that were issued by companies not now, nor for the last two years, within the reach of legal process issued by any court of this State, or of the United States for this circuit or district; the companies having withdrawn from business in California, and leaving no agent or attorney on whom summons or other legal process could be served. When these policies were issued, assurers supposed they would always be able to pay renewal premiums to an accredited agent of the company in this State, and if obliged to resort to the courts, to enforce their rights in the premises, it could be done here. To remedy evils of this nature for the future, the Commissioner suggests that hereafter, as a pre-requisite to admission to business in this State of any life insurance company, such company should be required to enter into a stipulation with the State, that if at any time the holder of its policy, issued in this State, shall be obliged to resort to the courts to enforce his rights under such policy—the company being at the time without an agent in this State on whom summons or other legal process may be served—such service may be made upon the Insurance Commission, or in such other mode as the Legislature shall designate, such service to have the same force and effect as if made upon the company.—Oakland Tribune.

Adolphe Dumas was a dramatic author who wrote only one successful play. Swelling with vanity, he, the first night it was played, and after it was evidently going to be very successful, went up to Alexander Dumas, as the latter was standing in the center of a brilliant circle of authors, painters, actors and actresses, and said, with a patronizing air: "My dear fellow, posterity will speak of the two Dumas as we speak of the two Corneilles." Alexander Dumas nodded and said: "Good night Thomas." The great Corneille was a pierre; his brother, Thomas, would have been forgotten had he not been related to the great dramatist.

A LIVELY MILL.—A regular prize fight took place yesterday afternoon on the hillside south of town, in the vicinity of the railroad track. The men engaged first had a "scrap" at the Silver Brick and adjoining to the above place fought several rounds according to the latest rules of the prize ring. The mill was of short duration, however, and the principals, bottle-holders and seconds returned home. Neither of the contestants were much hurt and afforded considerable sport to about forty lookers-on who gathered to witness the fight.—Eureka Sentinel.

RENO EVENING GAZETTE.

RENO, WASHOE COUNTY, NEVADA.
SATURDAY, MARCH 31, 1877.

The New Compromise.

We are exceedingly sorry that the good people of Storey county find affairs so much embarrassed, and we would gladly listen to some plan which should give them relief. A high rate of taxation, in times like these can be nothing else but ruinous, and hence the extremities of our sister county are matters for charitable consideration.

The proposition of Messrs. Mackey & Fair, lately offered before the Board of Commissioners, can work no good for the county, and should not be accepted, because the conditions accompanying the offer can not be fulfilled by the Commissioners. The money which goes into the Treasury must follow the usual law of apportionment, and the County Commissioners can not change its spirit so as to comply with present desires. We believe that if this amount of money is to be paid into the Treasury, the State will claim her portion, and enforce its payment—another loss to Storey county. Again, the County Commissioners are expressly forbidden, under the Statute to abate any portion of taxes levied, and for obvious reasons. When citizens ignore the law penalties are attached as punishment. The law very wisely forbids the Commissioners to remit such punishment by making the penalty a part of the tax.

Viewing the case dispassionately and with an eye to Storey's interests, we do not believe that a compromise upon these conditions can help her. The law will render the conditions null and void surely, and the only effect which they can have will be possibly to complicate matters. We do not pretend to know what dictated the offer, or what its ultimate effects may be. But there can certainly be no virtue in conditions which violate the distinct letter and spirit of the law. If, as we hope, and the Enterprise says, this offer comes from a generous spirit why hamper it? The tax suits are in Court and will be decided. Why not pay this $80,000 under protest simply? Such a course will neither prejudice the county's interests, nor those of the mine owners. This would be generosity, and simple justice to all concerned. Why not try it? We ask the Enterprise.

Trees and Rainfall.

We quote from an old bulletin of the Torrey Botanical Club the following reference to the influence of trees upon rainfall and atmospheric moisture. We do this to encourage farmers in the planting of trees. We have noticed with pleasure that Washoe county seems to have awakened to the value of growing trees about her farms, and one of the many results of a destruction of trees is found in the following illustration:

"The Island of Santa Cruz, in the West Indies, is said to have been a garden of freshness, beauty and fertility, twenty years ago. It was covered with woods, trees were everywhere abundant, and rains more profuse and frequent. The recent visit of a gentleman who had known the island in its palmier days, revealed a lamentable change, one-fourth of the island having become an utter desert. The forests and trees had been cut away, rainfalls had ceased, and the process of desiccation, beginning at one end of the island, had advanced gradually and irresistibly upon the land, until for seven miles it had become as dry and barren as the sea shore. Houses and plantations had been abandoned and the advance of desolation had been watched by the people, wholly unable to prevent it, but at the same time knowing almost to a certainty when their own plantations, their gardens and fresh fields would become a part of the waste. Indeed, it seemed that the whole island was doomed to become a desert. This sad result is owing entirely, according to the belief of inhabitants, to the destruction of the trees upon the island some years ago."

Here is certainly a pointed moral. The illustration has numberless counterparts, and if trees will improve climate and increase rainfall there is certainly rare encouragement for our farmers in their present course of tree planting.

Several newspapers have already made Presidential nominations for 1880. This is a harmless occupation, racking with speculations as to what particular tune Gabriel will blow on his trumpet when the time comes for just solo. —Carson Valley News.

Egypt's Civil Service.

Internal jealousies are so strong in Egypt that several men are appointed to do the work of one, in order that each nationality may be represented. An Englishman and a Frenchman attend to the taxation; two Englishmen and one Frenchman control the railroad service; an Englishman, an Italian, an Austrian, and a Frenchman regulate the public debt; while representatives of twelve nationalities occupy seats on the judicial bench.—N.Y.

The only question which puzzles us in regard to this statement is, "What do the Egyptians do?" Here are all of her respectable occupations taken up by foreigners and yet she is not yelling about reform, neither has a commission been known upon the banks of the Nile. The two extremes are associated in the matter of taxes and no doubt bring about a happy medium for the Khedive. The nation is also fortunate in not having an American in charge of Railroads, and the fact is probably owing to certain information carried from America. A strange choice is evinced in selecting the managers of the public debt. No race of office holders in the world have such talent in that direction as our soft American Democrats. Should the Khedive get short of spending money we advise him to have Thurman bring over a greenback press and pay the public debt. Twelve nationalities are seated upon the judicial bench. In this again the Khedive will allow us to correct him. We have known almost every kind of a Judge except the Egyptian, and from our experience should earnestly advise Your Majesty to put native born citizens in charge of justice. All other Judges are proven to be frail, and if there be one perfect he must be an Egyptian.

TELEGRAPHIC.

Henry Watterson, the noted radical Democratic Congressman, returned home to Louisville, Ky. a short time since, and Thursday night the Democracy of that city gave him a reception. He made a big speech, talked Tilden and Hayes, and said a few sensible things about the President's southern policy.

The Cabinet has not yet decided whether U. S. troops shall be withdrawn from South Carolina or not. A letter has been sent to Governors Chamberlain and Hampton, inviting them to call on President Hayes, and give their respective versions of the affair. It is probable that Hampton will be the recognized Governor of South Carolina.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.—Henry Monroe, a young man of about 20, who has lately been employed by Haines & Co. taking care of stage horses at Markleville, attempted to commit suicide by shooting himself with a pistol last Wednesday morning. About 10 o'clock A. M. of that day he was engaged in a game of cribbage in Musser's saloon. After the game was finished he walked across the street to Johnson's Hotel and went up to his room. Soon after the servant girl heard the report of a pistol, and gave an alarm. It seems that Henry had lain down on the bed and pointed the pistol with his left hand, as he intended, towards his breast, and fired. The bullet entered just beneath the breast bone. Dr. Luce was sent for immediately, and also his mother, Mrs. Maxwell, of Monitor. The Dr. returned yesterday, and reports his patient resting quite easy, though he was suffering much when he arrived. Unless mortification sets in, the Dr. thinks there is a probability of the young man's recovery. We have known Henry for several years; have known him to be a sober, industrious lad, and always gave him credit for having better sense than to undertake such a job as he has been guilty of. Of course there is a woman at the bottom of it.—Carson Valley News, 23d.

CONDITION OF THE NIAGARA SUSPENSION BRIDGE.—An examination of the cables of the Niagara suspension bridge has been made, and some of the weak points of the structure revealed. The cables at each end of the bridge, before they are anchored in the pit, are divided into seven strands, each strand numbering 520 wires, and terminating in a "collar" which is fastened to the anchor-bar. On examining those strands it was found that nine of the wires on the under side of the "collar" had corroded and parted. These, it is said, can easily be replaced by splicing. One piece of this corroded wire, about three feet in length, has been removed, and it was found capable of sustaining 1,350 pounds, and drew down to half its size before parting. None of the wires on the bridge have as yet shown any tendency to elongation, and when a weight is removed from the bridge return to their normal condition with the natural spring.

DOCTOR FLATTERY.—The D. B. in question arrived here last Saturday night, but did not honor this town with his presence more than three or four days. He managed to swindle everyone who had anything to do with him out of sums ranging from ten to fifteen dollars, telling them he would pay any time they called "at his office." Tuesday morning he quietly boarded the western bound lightning, and that is the last seen of him here.—Truckee Republican.

The Republican thinks the Gazette should have written him up sooner. We did not get well acquainted with him until Sunday after his departure, and even then did not know but that he departed with a clean score. We knew that his will was good however, and were informed that the Doctor took passage for San Francisco.

Minnesota farmers are being urged to import English sparrows for the extermination of the grasshoppers. If the advice is followed, they will be in a year or two hence looking for something to exterminate the sparrows, which kill the weaker members of the feathered tribe remorselessly.

THE DROWNING OF CLARE.—Several days ago an item appeared in the Silver State from a correspondent in Cornucopia, relative to the drowning of a man named Clare in Bull Run. From Jacob Zumwalt, who arrived here yesterday from the scene of the disaster, we learn the following particulars of the sad affair: The deceased was engaged in driving logs down Bull Run, which runs through a gorge in Bull Run mountain, and at this season of the year is a rapid, foaming stream. The wood which he was driving was jammed in the creek, and while endeavoring to break the jam, Clare fell into the water and was caught between the logs and a large rock and crushed to death. While wedged in this manner he managed to keep his head above water, and shouted for help. His partner, a man named Snyder, rushed to his assistance, and while endeavoring to extricate him, Clare said: "Be careful that you don't get caught" which were the last words he spoke, as immediately afterwards he was drawn down by the current and drowned. The body was afterwards recovered. Deceased was named Milton Clare, a native of Caldwell county Missouri, aged 26 years, and the last words that he uttered proved him to be as brave and unselfish as many who are recorded as heroes on the pages of history.—Silver State, 23d.

HAPPY WITH BOTH.—The Record of Olean, New York, cackinates to the following words:

It is nothing unusual for a woman to have two lovers, but we do not remember to have seen or heard of one who permitted them to sit one on each side of her and alternately taste the honeyed sweetness of her lips in front of a hotel window. But such a scene was witnessed here on Tuesday, the entertainment lasting for two hours, to the infinite amusement of a number of persons who watched the two Tarpot drillers working half-minute "tours" on the same little sugar well! And she was equal to the demands to the last.
